

Do my homework

do my Homework for me

Back to the middle of the last century, a contradiction has been established between biophysics and thermodynamics associated with muscle activity. In the last third of the last century, data on the life of thermophilic bacteria, which entered into an even deeper contradiction with classical thermodynamics were obtained. The nature of the energy generating the power of the Laplace is not clear, providing the nutrient solutions on the xylem beam against the gravity forces.